

Code of Conduct Letter

Version 1

Dear Matthew Grahame,

Following this letter is a copy of the Ted's Camera Stores Code of Conduct.

For over forty years, Ted's has been the leading specialty photographic retailer in Australia. We want to ensure that the spirit that brought Ted's to this position today is kept alive and articulated in a way that anyone who is dealing with Ted's Camera Stores, the Company and you as a Ted's employee, will have an experience that reflects the integrity, respect and common courtesy that is expected when dealing with us.

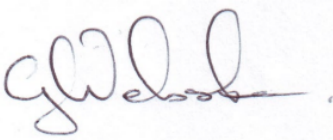

Whether the interaction is, a sale between a customer in a store and a sales consultant, a wholesaler supplying product to the company, an external supplier providing training to our staff and customers, someone finding us on the web, or an employee posting content on a social media platform, they should all reflect the principles upon which Ted's Camera Stores has risen to its present position in the retail photographic space and the expectations of all those people who make up the business.

We ask that after reading the Code of Conduct, you sign to affirm your commitment to continuing the proud Ted's tradition of which you will be such an important part. By signing this document you confirm your acceptance of the Code of Conduct and your willingness to abide by it.

Your store manager will be happy to arrange an individual meeting to discuss the Code of Conduct with you in more detail if you require it.

Your manager should also have a copy of the video of the Code of Conduct presentation, recorded in Melbourne on the launch of our Code of Conduct, Vision and Values, for you to view.

Yours Sincerely,

Grant Webster
General Manager
Ted's Camera Stores
